Science To Rescue Agriculture

Recent developments in the realm of agriculture indicate that science is hastening to the aid of the farmer in Western Canada and that the time is not far distant when only those farmers who make an earnest study of their problems and apply to those problems the discoveries which are being made by technical experts can hope to forge ahead and secure for themselves and their families the comforts which fall to the successful business-man.

There are several major problems confronting the man upon the land in the West at the present time. Among these are the questions of reducing the cost of the production of cash crops, and the necessity of not only fighting, but of forestalling reduction in yields through the agency of weeds, insect pests and diseases.

High costs of production and reduced yields through weeds, insects and diseases form a combination which can only be beaten by the alert farmer. Only the farmer who calls to his aid the forces of science can hope to overcome this profit-robbing alliance.

Consider, for instance, the cost of producing a bushel of wheat. While accurate figures are difficult to secure it is definitely known that some farmers are able to place a bushel of wheat in their granary or in the elevator at a mere fraction of the figure which it has cost some of their neighbors to raise and harvest a similar bushel of wheat. It is a safe prediction that the cheap-production farmer has carefully studied the economic effects of the use of good seed, scientifically sound cultivation methods and the cheapest and best modes of garnering his crop. Not only has he done this, but he has kept some record of the cost of his various operations, thus enabling him to find out the weak spots and remedy them.

In this field of agricultural effort a great deal of pioneering work has been done by the farm implement companies, individual farmers of an inventive turn of mind, and leaders of agricultural engineering. It only remains for the average farmer to avail himself of the scientific work already done in this direction and apply and perhaps modify it to his own conditions and circumstances. Many are already doing so to their profit.

Then there is the problem of reducing the loss to profits through the prevalence of weeds which are annually taking a huge toll from farmers. Here, again, a good deal of research work has been carried on by experts in the employ of the Colleges of Agriculture, the Provincial Governments, and the Federal Department of Agriculture. It has been demonstrated beyond all doubt that methods can be adopted which will keep these pests within control in some case, and in others that they can be entirely eradicated.

As an illustration of what is being done, investigations conducted by the Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture last year, as to the possibilities of eradicating some of the most serious weeds by the use of chemicals might be cited. It is true that the tests showed that the cost of chemicals as a weed destruction agency on a large scale, may be uneconomical but the value of such chemicals in eradicating small patches and preventing them from inundating the farm was clearly proved. A combination of chemicals, suitable cultivation methods, the use of clean and pure seed, will go a long way towards reducing the losses occasioned by weeds in this province.

Similar research work has been, and is being, carried on in the fight against diseases attacking wheat and other cereal grain crops. It is only necessary to refer to one of them—the efforts which are being made to breed a wheat that is not only resistant to the ravages of rust but that also contains those milling and baking attributes which makes Canadian hard red spring wheat so desirable in the export market. Recent reports indicate that success in this field of endeavor is crowning the efforts of technical workers, and it is probably only a matter of two or three years before the farmers will be able to seed their fields with a rust-resistant wheat of good milling and baking quality.

The foregoing are only one or two illustrations of the manner in which science is being enlisted to aid the farmer and to be successful in this day and generation. It is essential that the agriculturist inform himself of what is being done on his behalf and apply the results of the work of those trained men to his own particular problems.

Will Go In For Sheep

A number of farmers around Carman, Man., are interested in the proposal to bring in breeding ewes for distribution among them on terms of payment spread over three years, and a number of applications will be sent in from this district.

Acid Stomach

Excess acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and sourness about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid. It is harmless and tasteless and its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, never continue to suffer when you learn how quickly, how pleasantly this premier method acts. Please let it show you—right.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

Bouncing Immigrants

Feeling Seem To Be Veering Away From Coasting People To Come To Canada

Three members of parliament, a Liberal, a Conservative, and a United Farmer, spoke the other day against continuing a heavy expenditure to induce immigrants to Canada. They represent farming districts in Alberta, Ontario and Quebec. There is reason to think that the view they express is gaining ground among farmers, and, perhaps less rapidly, among townpeople. The advisability of "coaxing" people to come to Canada is the point at issue.

There is room in Canada for more people, of course. There are people to spare in other countries, particularly in Great Britain. Sending agents abroad to invite people to come to Canada brings a response; there is no doubt about that. But perhaps more would come if we stopped inviting them. There never were so many people wanting to get into the United States as since the "quota" law was passed. The closed gate arouses curiosity as to what lies beyond it.—Edmonton Bulletin.

FEELING WORN OUT

When the Blood Becomes Watery a Breakdown Follows

How many girls and women suffer from headaches, pain in the back or a poor appetite, nervousness, a constant feeling of weariness and palpitation of the heart at the least exertion. Of course, all these symptoms may not be present in any one case, but any of them show that the blood has become thin and watery, and good health can only be regained by enriching the blood. This should be done without delay. For this purpose nothing else acts so promptly and so surely as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Every dose helps to enrich the blood and tone weak nerves and thus brings new health and vitality to weak, and often dependent people. The truth of these statements is proved by the case of Mrs. Howard King, R.R. 5, Truro, N.S., who says: "A couple of years ago I grew so weak I could scarcely walk across a room without help. My blood was thin and I was almost breathless. I had taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills on a former occasion with good results, and so decided to try them again. By the time I had taken a few boxes I felt much better, but I continued taking the pills for several months, by which time I could walk for miles with little effort. I do all my own housework and care for four children, so you will see what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail, post paid, at 60c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Developing Vancouver Port

Further developments and improvements at the port of Vancouver, B.C., involving an expenditure of more than $10,000,000 and bringing the port grain capacity to more than 21,000,000 bushels of storage are to be undertaken this year.

Miller's Worm Powders are complete in their forms. They not only drive worms from the system, but repair the damage that worms cause, and so invigorate the constitution that it speedily recovers from the disorders of the digestion that are the result of the work of these parasitic intruders. Russia Has Aero-Sleighs

Fitted With Airplane Propellers They Attain High Speed

Aero-sleighs, driven at 35 to 45 miles an hour by airplane propellers, recently travelled 2,100 miles from Moscow to Perm and back. Four sleighs took part, in the complete run and five more accompanied them on the first day's journey.

The machines have a body of automobile design and look, except for the propeller, like an ordinary car mounted on runners. Under good conditions a speed of around 50 miles an hour can be attained.

Canada's War Legacy

Over 112 Millions Is Required For Interest Or Debt

Canada's ordinary expenditures (excluding of course, her outlay upon capital account), exceed 355 million dollars per year. Of this great sum, nearly 168 million dollars is directly attributable to the Great War, although the war has now been over for more than a decade.

Interest on the war debt demands over 112 millions; war pensions, over 40 millions; soldiers' civil establishment, nearly 8 millions. While expenditures attributable to the Great War mount up to almost 163 millions, the so-called war taxes raised less than 143 millions in the last fiscal year, the greater part of this being secured from the sales tax, stamp taxes and income tax.

War taxes constitute less than one-third of Canada's revenues. Customs and excise duties furnish the country with more than half her ordinary receipts.

Canada Must Use Aircraft

Or Business Of Dominion Will Be Hampered Says General MacBrien

Major-Gen. J. H. MacBrien, of Montreal, spoke on aviation and its relation to commerce and war, at the opening meeting of the Advertising Association's twenty sixth annual convention in Montreal, recently.

General MacBrien declared that Canadian business would be hampered unless aircraft were fully utilized in the speeding up of communication. The highways of the air would guide the world, he declared, and Canada must have her share. When telephone despatching, modern airports and safety devices become more general, aviation would be the safest form of travelling, he said.

Work of Counterfeiters Is Now Engaging the Attention Of the League of Nations

It is not generally known that since the Armistice there has been a huge increase in the crime of counterfeiting, and amongst the lesser but practical endeavours which have engaged the attention of the League of Nations is an attempt to minimise this international evil.

The extent of the menace is indicated by the results of an enquiry taken in 43 countries which showed that in a three year period no less than $5,000,000 in counterfeit currency was seized by the police authorities while it was estimated that at least twice that amount remained in circulation.

Since the war the multiplication of currencies and the vagaries of the exchanges has afforded wide scope to counterfeiters who availed themselves of the differences between the penal legislation of various countries and the lack of co-ordination between their police authorities to ply their trade and escape punishment.

This led the French government in 1927, to suggest that the matter should be taken up by the financial section of the League, and excellent progress has been made in curtailing the operations of the counterfeiters. The convention on this subject which met recently at Geneva obliged the contracting parties to punish the counterfeiting of foreign currencies just as severely as the counterfeiting of their own and contains extradition clauses to make sure that offenders are brought to justice.

Canada in the past has suffered severely from the operations of the counterfeiter and will follow with close interest the findings of the police, legal and financial experts, who are dealing with the subject at Geneva.

Plague Killing Oak Trees

Famous Forest in England Is To Be Cut Down

Great Britain's largest oak forest, the Royal Forest of Dean, which was planted to provide timber for the British Navy, is being cut down. Unlike Sherwood Forest, which is gradually disappearing to make room for colliery developments, Dean is suffering from the ravages of disease.

Hundreds of acres of trees are being attacked by a mysterious ailment, and are going prematurely to decay. Their branches are shrivelling up and dying, and their trunks are becoming overgrown with moss and fungus. The forest, in some parts, is intact, but over a large area in the centre the decayed boughs and stunted trees make a pitiful picture. The giant of the forest is a giant no longer. Pitiless disease has sapped its vitality.

The exact cause of the forest plague cannot be determined, although experts have made frequent investigations to discover it. The investigation, however, has ascertained that the chief cause of the rot is an unknown fungi entering the lower dead or dying branches of the trees. One theory is that harm is done by the frequent tunnelling and earth disturbance occasioned by the workings of mines under the forest.

Building Up Bodily Resistance To Disease Says Famous Surgeon

Dr. William Mayo, world famous surgeon, who with his equally famous brother, Charles, gave $2,000,000 to the University of Minnesota for medical research, says longevity is largely a matter of building up body resistance.

Three hundred years ago a man was old at 50, for the average span of life was 20 years. This has been extended until now it is fifty-eight. Today science is concentrating to increase the resistance powers of human beings and thereby combat dreaded diseases like cancer and tuberculosis. A life span of 100 is a possibility.

Discussing prohibition, Dr. Mayo believes that it will result in immense benefit to the human race.

"From the standpoint of public health, abstinence from liquor would prove beneficial," he said. He referred to Vienna, where since the advent of pure water for drinking purposes consumption of liquor has dropped 40 per cent. in ten years.

"Pure water always has and always will be the great beverage for human beings," says the surgeon.

Experiment With Fur Animals

Russian Sable and Stone Marten From Europe By Ontario Government

A pair of Russian sable and a pair of stone marten have been brought from Europe by the Ontario Department of Game and Fisheries, and placed on the provincial fur farm near Kirkfield, Ont. The animals were brought out to determine whether they can be raised in sufficient numbers in Ontario to benefit the fur trade. The animals were accompanied on the journey to Canada by 250 Hungarian partridge whose broods will be used for restocking purposes in suitable locations in the province.

International Ice Patrols Searching For Icebergs In Broad Sweep of North Atlantic

New Canadians To The Fore

Difficulties Of Assimilation Of The Foreigners Seem To Be Exaggerated

The high schools of Calgary recently engaged in the preliminaries of what is to be an international oratorical contest. Of the five candidates in the city finals one was born in Canada, one in England, one in Lithuania, one in Roumania, and one in Russia.

Of those five, four were immigrants, still young enough to be in high school, yet each born in a different country. All come together in competition to see which could best speak, in English be it testified, to an assembled audience. It is not improbable that they spoke upon some subject relating to the welfare of this land in which they now live.

We hear a great deal of the difficulties of assimilation. We produce our pessimists who spend their days and nights crying aloud against the bringing in of the foreigner. Too often we forget that there are many influences incessantly at work tending to make Canadians of these newcomers. These five oratorical contestants will serve to remind us of that.—Willson's Monthly.

Buy Where You Sell

Merchants, As Well As Citizens Should Patronize Home Industries

"Buy at home—you live there," with variations such as "you work there" or "you make your money there" has been a favorite advertising slogan with merchants for a great many years.

All of which makes me feel once again that a dose of one's own medicine should be prescribed occasionally.

In plainer words, "a merchant whom we may call 'Jones' is noted for his anxiety in relation to the home purchasing propensities of his townspeople, particularly when this applies to groceries—which Jones handles.

Jones, however, places his printing order with a cut-rate artist in a metropolitan center, and returns from a business trip to this same center each Fall, with two or three attractive suits made by the city tailor.

Now, Jones, that isn't nice. "Buy at home—you sell there," is a motto that you should hang upon your office wall—and read it carefully when next you feel the urge to preach to your neighbor.—Richard S. Bond.

Hunting for icebergs has been a regular business on the Atlantic ocean for three months in the year since the span of horror passed through the world in April, 1912, when the news came that the gigantic liner "Titanic" had crashed into an iceberg and was lost, with most of her passengers and crew. It was this terrible catastrophe that gave birth to what is known as the International Ice Patrol, whose duty it is to protect all who cross the Atlantic from a similar calamity as far as possible.

The cost of this patrol is shared by several European nations, including England and France, with the United States; but the patrol itself is provided by the United States Coast Service, and its duty is to patrol the seas, from the Grand Banks to the Arctic, in search of floating icebergs and fields.

On the first day of April each year this ice-hunt begins, and continues night and day until the close of June—three months of strenuous, perilous and unceasing labor, such as no other seamen on the face of the waters know.

When with the coming spring, winter relaxes her grasp on the regions near the Pole, bergs, and even fields of ice break away from their "moorings" with the rise of temperature and are swept southward by currents from Labrador and Greenland, in many cases crossing the routes of trans-Atlantic traffic.

It was in latitude 41 degrees 44 minutes N. that the Titanic came to her tragic end; and enormous icebergs have been seen two degrees farther south—considerably more than half the distance between the Pole and the Equator.

It requires little imagination to realize the menace of such colossal footmen of the sea to vessels across whose path they are swept; for many of them weigh hundreds of thousands of tons though only one-eighth of their bulk is visible above the surface of the sea. No lights or siren notes reveal their presence. In the darkness of night scarcely even a spectral glimmer can be seen before the doomed ship crashes into them to her destruction.

Having encountered one of these floating icebergs its exact position is marked on the chart, and a wireless message is sent out to shipping to give warning of its locality. The patrol ship then stands by the towering mass of ice, observing its speed, the direction of its travelling, its size, and so on—information which is also wireless as a warning to ships likely to cross its path.

Some bergs will travel as much as 20 miles in 24 hours; others only cover five or six miles; a berg, heading due south, may be caught in a cross-current and swept east or west, or back to the north, and thus it is often necessary to keep it chilly company for days until—perhaps it is swept into apparent safety. Occasionally a landing is made on berg or field and a more detailed and accurate examination made of it than is possible from a ship.

Dairying An Important Industry

Dairying is one of the oldest and one of the most important of the industries of Canada. It owes its modern development to the introduction of the factory system for the making of cheese and butter, to the invention of the centrifugal cream separator, and to the facilities afforded by improved methods of cold storage.

CANADIAN PACIFIC EXPRESS

Ancient Traveller

This strange-looking animal is a Duck-billed Platypus. It originated in Australia and is thought to be the only specimen of its kind in Canada. Its body is eighteen inches long and its head and feet, the latter being flat and webbed, greatly resemble those of a duck. It has the tail of a beaver. Canadian Pacific Express officials had no problem of feeding it as it has been stuffed for over a hundred years.

JUDAH TAKEN CAPTIVE

Golden Text: "Righteousness exalteth a nation; But sin is a reproach to any people."—Proverbs 14:34.

Lesson: 2 Kings 25:1-21. Devotional Reading: Psalm 137 10-16.

Explanations and Comments

The Siege of Jerusalem, verses 1-3.—In the ninth year of Zedekiah's reign, 586 B.C., in the tenth month according to the Babylonian calendar, which numbered its months from the spring season, the tenth month corresponding to our January, and on the tenth day of the month, Nebuchadnezzar, King of Babylon, came with his army and besieged Jerusalem. "The nation never forgot the month, and the day on which the armies of Chaldees finally invested the city. It was felt as the day of the deepest gloom by the Israelite exiles, Ezek. 24. It has been commemorated as a fast, the Fast of Tebeth, ever since in the Jewish Church."

Nebuchadnezzar's army encamped around the city and built forts against it. The Jews were probably movable towers from which missiles could be discharged over the city walls. The Jews fought on for eighteen months. From Jeremiah 34, 7, we learn that a part of Nebuchadnezzar's troops were engaged in attacking Lachish and Azekah during this time, and from Jeremiah 37:5, 11, that the reported approach of an army from Egypt caused a brief raising of the siege. The siege was resumed, and at last famine became so acute in the city that there was no bread for the people. Read the account in Jeremiah 21:7-9; Lamentations 4:8-10; 5:10.

The Fate of Jerusalem, verses 8-10, 13-17.—On the seventh day of the fifth month, Nebuzaradan, the captain of Nebuchadnezzar's guard (literally, "chief of the executioners," the king's bodyguard to whom such duties belonged), came to complete the destruction of Jerusalem. "The work of devastation was thoroughly done. The gold and silver vessels, and the pillars and vessels of brass of the temple were saved to be carried to Babylon, and then the sacred temple, on which such a passion of love had been lavished, was razed to the ground. The king's palace and every great house in the city were burned, and the city walls were broken down."

No Rest With Asthma. Asthma usually attacks at night, the one time when rest is needed most. Hence the loss of strength, the nervous debility, the loss of flesh and other evils which must be expected unless relief is secured. Fortunately relief is possible. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy has proved its merits through years of service. A trial will surely convince you.

Canadian Choristers

Make Splendid Showing In Competition Held In New York

Americans are accustomed to Canadian winning high honours at international stock and grain shows, but a surprise was sprung when two Canadian male choirs went to New York and captured second and third places in competition with the best male choirs of the United States. These were the Ottawa Temple Choir, and the Peterboro (Ontario) Male Chorus, awarded two of the first three places in the "B" Class of the international choral contest. First prize went to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Glee Club of Baltimore, with 88 1/2 points out of a possible 100, the Ottawa Temple Choir was next with 87 1/2 points, and the Peterboro Male Chorus third, with 86 1/2 points. The contest was one of the features of a two-day choral festival held under the auspices of the Associated Glee Clubs of America, in which 75 choirs from the United States and Canada took part, totalling 4,000 voices. In the contest in which the two Canadian choirs scored second and third places, 14 choirs were entered.

REVISION OF GRAIN ACT IS RECOMMENDED

Ottawa.—Complete revision and consolidation of the Canada Grain Act at the next session of Parliament is recommended in an unanimous report tabled in the House of Commons by the Parliamentary Committee of Agriculture.

The chief recommendations contained in the report are the following:

Amendments to the Canada Grain Act to prohibit mixing in the four statutory grades of red spring wheat, namely: No. 1 hard, No. 1 Northern, No. 2 and No. 3.

This amendment would not become effective until August 1, 1930.

The output standard for all terminal elevators of all statutory and commercial grades of red spring wheat to be a composite sample equal to 75 per cent. of the average quality of the grade and 25 per cent. of the minimum quality of such grade at the primary inspection points. This provision would be made effective on August 1, of this year, and would apply to the current year's crop.

The board of grain commissioners to be composed of three members as at present. In addition to these there will be four assistant commissioners, who are to be located, one in each prairie province, and one at the head of the lakes. The commission itself would be given power to name its own headquarters.

Certain increased powers to be given to the board to assess loss and damage in any case where a complaint is made, with power to enforce its findings in any court of competent jurisdiction. Appeal from such may be allowed in the district or county court in which the person entering such complaint resides.

The recommendation is made that the standards boards be constituted on a different basis from that now prevailing. The producers would have one-half of the representation on the board, which would be comprised of the following:

The Board of Grain Commissioners, the chairman of the Board of Grain Appeal, the chief inspector, the chief chemist, the Dominion cerealist, one representative of the millers, four representatives of producers from Alberta, five from Saskatchewan, three from Manitoba, and one from British Columbia.

Discuss Tariff Question

Canadian Manufacturers Association To Make Pronouncement

Halifax, N.S.—The manufacturers who takes one view on protection for what he produces and another on what he buys not only is inconsistent but he undermines the very position he seeks to safeguard, "was the opinion of President L.W. Simms at a session of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, at which the report of the tariff committee was adopted with a motion that a committee be appointed by the president to draw up a pronouncement on tariff matters.

Canada's tariff problem was different from that of any other country, said H. M. Jaquays, Montreal. On one hand were the agriculturists entitled to special consideration in their marketing activities. Industrial development was essential. Any tariff policy must be shaped toward the goal of cheaper production and requests to the tariff committee should, always be qualified to that end.

Passes Railway Bill

Ottawa.—The Senate committee on railways recommended without amendment the bill authorizing the Canadian National Railways to construct terminal facilities in Montreal at an estimated cost of $51,400,000.

C.N.R. Earnings

Montreal.—The Canadian National Railway gross earnings for the ten day period ending May 31, 1929, were $7,549,099, as compared with $7,548,600 for the corresponding period of 1928.

Fear Break Between China and Russia

Trouble Arising Over Arrest Of Soviet Officials In Manchuria

London, England.—Russian troops were said by a Peking dispatch to the Express, to be massing on the Manchurian frontier to prevent thousands of Chinese from leaving Russian territory. The flight of the Chinese was in fear of arrest and deprivation of their belongings in retaliation for the arrest of Soviet officials in Manchuria.

Rengo news agency of Japan reported that Soviet consul general Kuznetsov, of Mukden, was under arrest at Hailar and that intense anxiety was felt in the Harbin Soviet community where a complete break between Russia and China was feared.

The strained relations between the two countries began with Chinese raids on Soviet consulates in search of documents to support charges that Communists were actively interfering in Chinese internal affairs. The raids were followed by a sharp note of protest by the Soviet, virtually suspending diplomatic immunity of Chinese officials in its territory.

Ramsay MacDonald To Lead

Accepts King's Invitation To Form A Cabinet

London, England.—Right Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the Labor party, accepted the King's invitation to form a cabinet to replace that of Right Hon. Stanley Baldwin. Conservative Premier, who resigned. Official announcement of the acceptance was made at Windsor Castle, where the King was ill, a few minutes after the Labor leader had called and left to go back to London.

He arrived at 11:04 a.m. with his son Alastair MacDonald and Lord Arnold.

The King's equerry, Colonel Seymour, escorted him inside the castle. He remained slightly more than an hour, leaving at 12:15.

It was the second cabinet Mr. MacDonald has been called upon to form. The first was that of more than five years ago when the Labor party, with the help of the Liberals, was given its first chance at the control of the British government.

Windsor, England.—King George suffered no ill effects from the excitement of receiving the outgoing and incoming Prime Ministers on successive days.

Saskatchewan Leads In Scout Training

Had More Leadership Courses Last Year Than All Other Provinces Combined

Regina.—Saskatchewan was able to report more training courses for scout leadership than all the other provinces combined during the year ending May 31, 1929. It was stated by W. J. P. Selby, provincial secretary of the Boy Scouts Association. More than 525 adults took the indoor Gilwell training courses, 409 of these being granted certificates from Dominion headquarters.

The figures were disclosed at the annual meeting of the Canadian General Council of the Association at Ottawa, which reported an increase of 86 troops and 273 leaders in the Dominion during the year. There are now 53,000 scouts and leaders in Canada.

As an indication of the constant progress of the organization, it was stated that 34,170 scout rank and proficiency badges had been awarded in 1928-29, an increase of 5,826 over the preceding year. The report of the welfare work of the association showed that, through 93 centres, toys had been distributed to more than 50,000 children last Christmas, including 5,000 children of newly-arrived immigrants.

Western Canada Air Mail

Negotiations With Various Airway Companies Still Proceeding

Ottawa, Ont.—Negotiations between the post office department and the various airway companies of Western Canada in regard to the awarding of a contract for the carriage of mail from Winnipeg west to Calgary and Edmonton and intermediate cities are still proceeding, but it is considered most improbable here that action will be taken until after the close of Parliament.

Officials of the department said recently that the problem presented by the desire of several companies to share in the contract appeared no nearer a solution than several weeks ago.

Flames Creates Havoc In Northern Mining Town

Cranberry Portage Suffers Heavy Loss Through Fire

The Pas, Man.—Surrounded by a wall of fire, forest rangers, railway construction workers, miners and every available able bodied man in Cranberry Portage, little Manitoba mining town, on the shores of picturesque Lake Athabasca, battled to save what remained of the settlement after the flames had brought destruction the day before. It was the townsite of Cranberry Portage, constructed only a few months ago, across the railway tracks from what is now known as the Old Town, that was destroyed when flames from a forest fire swept in from the north.

Within 20 minutes, a score of dwellings, several business buildings, the railway station and hospital, were smouldering ruins, and 200 persons out of the town's 500 population had been rendered homeless. There were no casualties. The property loss will run into thousands of dollars and many small personal fortunes were swept away. No insurance was carried, as Cranberry was considered a fire hazard by the underwriting companies, surrounded as it is by forest.

Mount Vesuvius In Eruption

Heavy Fall Of Smoke And Ashes Hangs Over Naples

Naples.—Huge clouds of smoke, laden with ashes, from the belching throat of Mount Vesuvius, hung over Naples and turned the brightness of noon into a kind of twilight.

Neapolitans were unable to see their familiar land mark which was clouded by the screen of smoke issuing from its crater.

The Associated Press correspondent visited Terzigno and found conditions terrible. Families were withdrawing with all their belongings and cattle they started into the churches on the line of retreat, invoking Saint Gennaro and praying before shrines.

Troops took possession of villages to prevent marauding after the inhabitants had departed.

Forest Fires In Japan

Damage To Property Already Over Three Million

Tokio.—Heavy rains over the island of Saghalien and Yokkaido have greatly lessened the threat from forest fires there, although resumption is feared when the weather dries. Fire fighters are redoubting their efforts hoping to end the menace while the rain continues.

The governor-general of Saghalien reported losses on his island included 41 dead, 163 seriously injured, and 1,206 houses destroyed, 4,710 homeless, and about $3,500,000 damage to urban property. Damage to the forests had not been estimated.

Wrong Man-Convicted

London, England.—After serving three months in prison, Ernest Lee, 30, received a pardon and $500. It was found after he had served this time on a charge of poisoning as a brewer's agent, and collecting a commission, that another man was guilty. The guilty party, already in jail on another crime, confessed.

ESTIMATES FOR DEFENCE MEET WITH OPPOSITION

Ottawa.—Canada had denounced war as a national policy and for this reason it was inconsistent that the estimates in the department of national defence should show an increase, declared Miss Agnes MacPhail, Progressive member for South East Grey, in the House of Commons.

Miss MacPhail was emphatic in opposition to the national defence estimates and during the consideration of cadet services moved an amendment to reduce the amount of the appropriation from $500,000 to $1. The amendment was defeated 56 to 15.

The only woman member of parliament declared she would like to see Canadians take the stand that war should be forever abandoned.

J. S. Woodsworth, Labor, Winnipeg North Centre member, complained that the supplementary estimates would bring the total for the department to more than $21,000,000. While it was true that only a few reckless adventurers or ruthless profiteers would deliberately attempt to start another war, a conflict was quite possible so long as conditions remained as they were. The pile up debts of the last war constituted all the memorials Canada needed.

Mr. Woodsworth declared that as the military estimates amounted to $20,000,000 he did not think it would be too much to ask that $200,000 be spent on peace.

The money could establish a chair on international relations in every university in Canada. It could provide for the sending of three or four Canadian students from each university into foreign countries, to study foreign affairs. It could provide for the training of young men desirous of entering the ambassadorial service. If we were to have peace we must make preparations for it and be willing to spend something on peace.

Col. A. L. Ralston, minister of defence, said it was not correct to say that Canada spending $20,000,000 or proposed to spend it under the estimates, on her militia. As a matter of fact the vote this year for military services was $11,085,000 whereas in 1913-14 when more value could be secured for one's money the vote for military services was about quarter of a million dollars higher. Canada was in a happy position geographically and at no time did the United States enter as a factor in the country's defence budget.

Canada had only one regular soldier to every 3,000 individuals. The permanent force was not even a decent police force. The real defence force of the country was the non-permanent active militia.

Canada was not given credit for the length to which the country had gone in disarmament. No nation spent less on warlike activities. Brigadier-General J. A. Clark, Conservative, Vancouver-Burrard, asked if it were not possible that instead of using a large civilian staff for the administration of the department, clerks could not be recruited from among the members of the permanent force. G. G. Coote, U.P.A., Macleod, asked for the total number of cadets in Canada. There were 133,403. Col. Ralston said. A large portion of the grant for cadet service was expended to provide physical training for boys' schools throughout Canada.

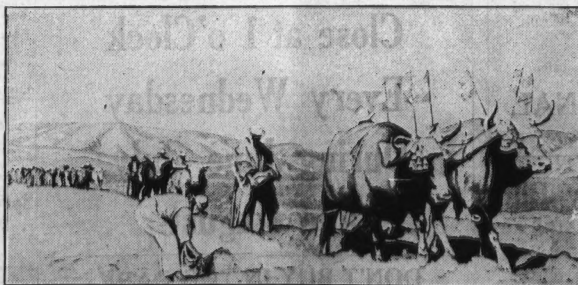

Going To South America

Tide Of Immigration Now Running In Southwesterly Direction

Rio De Janeiro, Brazil.—The tide of emigration, which for decades flowed westward across the Atlantic to New York and other American ports has definitely set in a southwesterly direction.

European steamship companies are operating larger and faster steamers to South America, than were the pre-war emigrant carriers of the North Atlantic, with much better accommodations. Under these conditions the millions believe that their country is on the verge of a great increase in population with consequent agricultural development.

A new wheat, known as R-49, may be the long awaited rust-resistant wheat. Canadian Government plant breeders have long been experimenting in an effort to develop a variety of wheat that will resist rust and at the same time be of high grade milling quality. Emmer, which is a rough, large, rather poor-yielding grain of the wheat family, which has seemed to be rust-resistant has been crossed with Marquis wheat and the progeny again crossed with Marquis resulting in a grain which is three-quarters Marquis stock. The plant breeders have carried on their experiments at the Manitoba Agricultural College and from many 86 strains developed, R-49 seems so far to be the most promising.

The Desert Song

VIRGINIA MORRIS

"The Desert Song" is a Warner Bros. production of the story by Otto Harbach, Laurence Schwab, Oscar Brown, Jr., and Frank Mandel.

CHAPTER IV.

Margot Bonvallet was alone. It was late afternoon and she had just given Paul Fontaine her answer. General Biraubeau would marry that night. She was allowing herself a few last moments of meditation. Leaning against a tremendous mosaic archway, she stood on the balcony and gazed at the vast desert. It awoke in her heart an infinite longing, the ache for an indescribable something that would never be fulfilled. This was not the wedding day of which she dreamed.

Her reverie was broken as a man's figure vaulted the railing behind her. She gave a startled cry, for the stranger was clad in a burnoose of flaming scarlet and his face was hidden behind a protecting mask.

"Oh, you're the Red Shadow!" she managed to exclaim when she had recovered her breath and had steadied herself against a chair.

He bowed gallantly. "A votre service, Mademoiselle."

Margot assumed a dignity that she did not feel. "How dare you come here?" she demanded.

"I heard you call for romance," her visitor explained. "I, too, long for romance and I would dare anything to get what I want. But what would you dare, that's what I came to find out."

The girl ignored the question which the Red Shadow had asked with gusto.

"Do you realize that one scream from me would wipe out the Red Shadow?" she asked him.

The mysterious stranger shrugged his shoulders. "You wouldn't call for romance in one breath and toss it away in the next."

The ardor of his voice grew as he leaned toward her. "Will you come with me?" he begged. "If you come, I promise not to hold you, but you will stay."

Margot had been clutching her riding crop to give her confidence. Now she raised it quickly. With it she struck the man before her straight across his face. He buried his head in his arm to alleviate the pain and reeled against the balcony rail.

But the girl's indignation quickly cooled. She was alarmed at what she had done. "Oh, oh, I've blinded you!" she cried, running over to him.

But the Red Shadow had by now recovered himself.

"No, Margot, you haven't blinded me, you've just opened my eyes. Now I'm going to make you love me!"

Before she could protest she felt his arms around her, felt him crush her body against his own, felt his mouth seek hers. For a wonderful moment she yielded. But the remembrance of her promise to Paul restored her to her senses and she drew herself away from him.

"General Biraubeau! Paul! Paul! Come quickly!"

With a nimble leap, the Red Shadow scaled the balcony once more and, blowing her a kiss, was gone.

A moment later she was surrounded by the officers of the garrison. In breathless sentences she told them of the outlaw's visit, of his presumptuous advances. General Biraubeau was inclined not to believe her. He thought that the episode was an invention of the girl's feverish imaginings, inspired perhaps by her successive disappointments in Paul. She found a sympathetic listener when Pierre came in a little later.

"What did he look like?" he asked.

"He was all dressed in red, Pierre. His complexion is 100 darker than yours. He was masked, but his eyes seemed to gleam through. He's a big man—about a head taller than you—and, oh, how strong he is!"

At this juncture, Captain Fontaine, who had heard the report of the Red Shadow's visit, came hurriedly in. He could not understand how the leader of the Riffs had gained access to the house, for every entrance and exit was carefully guarded by troops. However, he considered the man's effrontery in coming a personal challenge to him and determined to run him down that night. Already the signal fires were blazing on the darkening horizon. The Riffs were calling their leader and he would answer them as always.

While her fiancé prepared to leave, Margot was both disappointed and relieved. After all, he was as she had known him to be, her lover only when the bugle did not summon him to military adventure. With the menace of the Red Shadow now upon her, in his mind, romance was again forgotten. He would lead a cavalry troop into the desert at once to kill the Red Shadow, for he realized that the natives loved his man and might revolt if he were taken prisoner.

Again alone, Margot waited—she knew not for what. A sudden volley of shots in the courtyard told her that the Riffs and the French were in active combat. The outlaws had dared now to attack the garrison itself. She felt the tiny revolver in her pocket and was about to seek an even surer safety when the Red Shadow entered the room once more as mysteriously as before. She whipped out the gun and levelled it at him.

"Come a step nearer and I'll fire!"

For a moment he said nothing but he looked at her very steadily. When he noticed that she wavered, he whispered softly, "Put down that gun!"

Quickly she raised it to take aim, but more quickly still he caught her wrist and turned it until the weapon fell to the floor. And before she could make further protest he had picked her up in his arms. In vain she fought to free herself. In vain she called for help. There was none to aid her, for every soldier in the garrison was fighting grimly to keep off the attacking Riffs.

Outside, his white horse waited for him. In an instant he had thrown the girl across the saddle and had mounted. The pony galloped wildly forward, far, far across the sand into the mystery of the desert night, to the vast unknown where romance and love are found. Margot Bonvallet no longer struggled. She clung to the rider, who held her close while he spurred his horse on to a greater speed, and the world she had known was left far behind.

CHAPTER V.

The Red Shadow did not take his beautiful hostage to the Riffs' encampment in the hills. Instead, he turned his horse's head to the distant oasis in the midst of which towered the magnificent palace of All Ben Ali. Riding close at his heels came twenty of his own men who carried off Bennie and Susan as their prisoners. Their leader lifted Margot from his saddle and gave her in to the care of his soldiers while he went to greet his guest.

All Ben Ali received him in a great hall sumptuous with oriental luxury. Its highly polished floor was inlaid with rare mosaic. Low divans covered with priceless rugs invited one to voluptuous ease. Within close reach of them were great brass bowls heaped high with luscious fruit. Or if one preferred smoking in the fashion of the east, there were low tables holding porcelain hookahs, the bubble pipes from which heavy oriental tobacco is inhaled through water.

The great Sheikh who had been amusing himself with some dancing girls from Spain, dismissed them when his guest approached. He stretched out his arms, saying "Hail, friend!"

The Red Shadow reciprocated this gesture of goodwill.

"Once more, All, I beg your kindness and shelter."

"Should not I protect the protector of my race? What is it this time? Have you burned down a prison or kidnapped a tax collector?"

"This time it's a little different!" admitted his visitor with a smile.

"Ah, yes, to be sure, you bring two women captives—that is unusual. Many times I have offered you the hospitality of my Harem but you have always been as shy about women as—as a Christian."

From the garden, Sid El Car entered with soldiers guiding Margot and Susan. Both of them were blindfolded but the Red Shadow immediately ordered the handkerchiefs removed from their eyes.

"Where's my Bennie?" demanded Susan, querulously.

Margot, still tugging at the ropes that bound her hands, cried "Where's that brute—that outlaw—that kidnapper?"

The Red Shadow bowed very low before her. Sheikh All Ben Ali ventured a suggestion of hospitality. But he addressed himself to the leader of the Riffs, "I presume you want them to get the same treatment as my women here—you want them both?"

The Red Shadow nodded. "By all means!"

"How dare you?" protested Margot. "As a French citizen, in the name of the republic of France, I demand to be released!"

Firmly but quietly, two slaves led the women away. Susan relished the adventure as much as Margot shrank from it. Some Riffs had brought in the captured journalist, Bennie Kid, who was already rousing his secretary's jealousy by his not too furtive glances at the seductive Spaniards. "Oh, Bennie!" squealed Susan, "he's taking me upstairs. But somehow, Bennie made no movement of protest."

Large Numbers Of Repatriates Return

1,500 Canadians Returning To Canada From United States

During 1929, about two thousand French-Canadians will be repatriated from the New England States to take up farming in Quebec, Ontario and the far west of Canada, according to estimates of the Colonization Department of the Canadian National Railways. In 1928, through movements in which the Canadian National was directly interested, 1,500 Canadians, most of them natives of Quebec, returned to Canada to go on the land.

SKYWAYS AND HIGHWAYS

In the sky and on the highways, transportation moves at a faster tempo. The speed records of yesterday are commonplace today.

Greater speed is made possible by better and faster motors which call for a new margin of lubricating safety. Oils that were "good enough" ten years ago won't do today. Marvelube, a pure, carbon-free, full-bodied oil made from Peruvian Crude, is the preference of Canadian aircraft operators and motorists.

Over half a million motorists in Canada have proved Marvelube's superior qualities. 90 out of every 100 miles flown by aircraft in Canada are travelled with Imperial Products.

There is a grade of Marvelube refined to meet exactly the specifications of your car, truck or tractor. Consult the Marvelube Chart at Imperial stations and dealers.
